

NEW YORKISMS.

From Our Own Correspondent.

New York, Oct. 3, 1870.

Louis Moreau Gottschalk.

This morning the obsequies of Louis Moreau Gottschalk were observed at St. Stephen's Church.

The church is situated on Twenty-eighth street, between Lexington avenue and Third avenue.

Notwithstanding the bad weather every seat in the church was occupied, and had the weather been fine the crowd would have been excessive.

The church is a handsome and commodious one, and has the reputation of being one of the first Roman Catholic churches in New York.

Five hundred invitations only were issued, but a great number of people who bore no cards of admission were also allowed to share in the devotion and in the enjoyment of the music.

A great deal of white choker was visible, ministers from various denominations of Protestantism being present.

Among New York Protestant ministers who are fond of music, and who reverence Gottschalk for being a musical genius, there was doubtless some spiritual struggle as to whether their love for music or their prejudices in favor of Protestantism should obtain the upper hand.

Music apparently got the best of the struggle; for, as I said before, the white choker was almost ubiquitous.

Mr. Berge, who wears long hair, and bears some slight resemblance to Henry Ward Beecher, played the organ. The music, which consisted mainly of Cherubini's Requiem Mass, was sung by a double quartette, assisted by Mr. Berge's Choral Union.

An adaptation of "The Last Hope," composed by Gottschalk, and rearranged by his sister Clara, was introduced at the offertory, and when the body was finally carried out of church, Gottschalk's "Funeral March" was performed.

I should have said previously, that when the remains were brought into the church Gottschalk's "Morte" was played by Mr. Berge. There is an interesting memento connected with this piece. It was Gottschalk's last composition, and he was seized with his fatal illness while conducting the performance of the piece at a concert in Rio Janeiro.

When, during his illness, he forwarded the manuscript of "Morte" to his New York publishers, he sent with it a letter, in which he made use of the remarkable expression, "I believe it" (referring to "Morte") "was written for my requiem."

Upon the coffin there were strewed flowers enough to cover it. I was not near enough to tell what the flowers were, but I presume a large proportion of them consisted of orange-blossoms. There were two exquisite crowns and a number of bouquets. The two sisters of Gottschalk, and a gentleman who was pointed out as a brother-in-law of Gottschalk, were among the nearly-related mourners.

The elaborate rites of the Roman Catholic Requiem Mass were observed, and the air was fragrant with the breath of censers. The Rev. Edward J. McGinn, D. D., officiated. The pall-bearers were eight in number. Among them was Mr. Henry C. Watson, the art critic, who is a very excellent judge of music, but whose prejudices, until they are reformed, will always prevent his being in the eyes of conscientious and intelligent lovers of music, a critic whose justice can be relied upon. The services began at 10 o'clock and were over a little before 12. They were solemn, picturesque, affecting, and a worthy expression of both religion and music. The large and serious attendance, too, was the natural expression of the reverence in which the great pianist is held in this city.

John Allen dead.

I have to record, also, the death of a man very different from Gottschalk—John Allen, the magazine hero of Oliver Dyer. If John Allen deserves to be known as the wickedest man in New York, Oliver Dyer deserves to be known as one of the weakest. The man who, under the cant of religion, could succumb to the temptation of "creating a sensation," making money, and gaining notoriety by such means as Oliver Dyer created, made, and gained them, is certainly a "weak" man. "Weak" is the gentlest epithet that ought to be applied to him. Neither the journalist, nor the magazinist, nor the writer of books, has a right to make money and notoriety for himself by dragging a fellow-man's errors, crimes, and sins to light. This is precisely what Oliver Dyer did—and did ruthlessly, and in such a manner as might very excusably have excited the anger and disgust of a man less sensitive than Allen was.

Well, the unhappy man has gone to his account. I will not stigmatize him as "the wickedest man," because I do not know that he was any wickeder than some of those who helped to confer notoriety upon him. Doubtless he did commit sins, and perhaps crimes, which those who gave him the reputation he now enjoys were never tempted to commit. Their sins, errors, and crimes were more respectable and secret, but I am not sure that they were more pardonable in the sight of the Loving and Impartial Eye before which the drifting outcast whom religiously libel at now stands. If report speaks truly John Allen died at West Perth, Fulton county, New York, September 16. The accidental and indirect good which, in Water street, ensued upon the publication of Mr. Dyer's article ought not to be able to console that gentleman for the wrong he did his victim.

Miscellaneous Mention.

Upon almost every one of the city-car lines the fare is reduced from six cents to five. Upon the East Line Belt street railroad there has been a strike, because a notice appeared upon the time-table directing all drivers running from the South Ferry to Thirty-seventh street to make three additional trips from Thirty-seventh street to Central Park. As the execution of this order involved an additional labor of three hours without additional pay, the strike will be understood.

This week is going to be an extremely busy one in amusements. Miss Kellogg gives a concert here next Saturday night previous to her departure on a concert-tour. The new theatre, the Globe, is to be opened to-night. Lina Edwin produces a dramatization of "Barnaby Rudge." Mr. Daly is soon to place upon his stage an adaptation of "Edwin Drood," with an "original ending." I should think so. The new pantomime at the Olympic, called "Wee Willie Winkie," is to be played on Wednesday night. The Kiraly troupe bring some new dances to Wood's Museum. Wallace's is preparing "The Two Roses." Lotta begins acting "Sam Willoughby" to-night. On Wednesday night Seebach interprets "Jane Eyre." You will observe, therefore, that the theatres are busy.

MUSICAL AND DRAMATIC.

The City Amusements.

At the Chesnut the Lizard troupe appeared last evening to a full house. The comedienne of "The Trice All," with Miss Alice Dunning Lizard, Miss D. Lizard, Mr. W. H. Lizard, and Mr. Boniface in the leading parts, commenced the performance in an agreeable manner. Mr. Lizard then gave his amusing profane sketches, which were followed by the farce of "The Spanish Fly." One of the most agreeable features of the evening was the violin solo by Mr. Wehlig, which was deservedly received with hearty applause.

This evening the same bill will be repeated.

At the Walnut Miss Lucille Western will appear this evening in "East Lynne."

At the Arch the comedy of "Central Park" will be repeated this evening.

At the Eleventh Street Opera House a minstrel entertainment will be given this evening.

At the Arch Street Opera House songs, burlesques, and dances will be performed this evening.

At the American a miscellaneous programme will be presented this evening.

The First Annual Concert of Landenlager Social will be given to-morrow evening at Handel and Haydn Hall corner of Eighth and Spring Garden streets. A fine musical programme will be presented, after which the fair of "The Races" will be performed. This concert will be for the benefit of Company B, Grey Reserves, P. N. G., who are about purchasing new uniforms.

Register of Wills.

I cannot call to recollection a single instance where a private soldier has been honored with the opportunity of an election to a lucrative Row office, until our present candidate for Register of Wills, William M. Bunn, Esq., was placed in nomination. It shows that the Republican party has not forgotten those who sustained the old flag, and that while they do not forget the brave officers who so nobly did their duty in front of the enemy, they have no inclination to throw overboard any one who conscientiously did his duty, although he may not have had a chance of obtaining a commission. Mr. Bunn looks fresh and vigorous, and though his labors in campaigning may be somewhat arduous in the future, the danger through which he passed during our recent struggle with Rebellion will tend him fortitude which he otherwise would not have possessed—fortitude that cannot be thwarted by any remarks that may be made by enemies or professed friends when the candidate is not present. Mr. Bunn works with an energy and will which those who have not had experience cannot comprehend, and we know we are safe in predicting that he will be elected by a decisive and overwhelming majority.

NEW STYLES FALL CLOTHING.

BETTER IN MAKE, STYLE, AND FIT, AND LOWER IN PRICE THAN ANY OTHER STOCK OF READY-MADE CLOTHING IN PHILADELPHIA.

Halfway between Fifth and Sixth Streets. BENNETT & CO., TOWER HALL, No. 615 MARKET ST.

There is one branch of the clothing business that is more difficult than any other, that is to make it a success. It is the cutting of Youths' and Boys' clothing, the long experience of Rockhill & Wilson of over forty years, and the particular attention they have bestowed upon this branch of the business, that have made their house so popular with theadies of Philadelphia and its surroundings. We are now supplied with the largest and most magnificent stock ever offered in the city, to which we invite the attention of the public.

ROCKHILL & WILSON'S Great Brown-stone Clothing Hall, Nos. 603 and 605 Chesnut street.

IN THOUSANDS OF CASES.—Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup for all diseases, with which children are afflicted, such as teething, griping, in the bowels, wind colic, etc., has been used with perfect and never-failing success in thousands of cases. It softens the gums, reduces inflammation and allays all pain. Mothers, do not fail to procure it.

THE WHITE-HAIRED KING who offered millions for a new pleasure, would have assigned the reward to PHALON'S VITALIA, OR SALVATION FOR THE HAIR, because it would have enabled him to renew in his silver locks their youthful glory. The Vitalia is clear and has no sediment. It does not stain the skin, but will color the hair in a very few applications. Sold by all druggists.

MR. WILLIAM W. CASSIDY, the jeweller at No. 8 South Second street, has one of the largest and most attractive stocks of all kinds of Jewellery and Silverware in the city. He has also on hand a fine assortment of the American Western Watches. Those who purchase at this store at the present time are certain to get the worth of their money.
